"High Office Is Degraded"

COWBOY COSTUME HIT IN EDITORIAL

By President, Says Paper

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

Washington, July 17.—Scathing criticism of President Coolidge for "degrading his high office" by appearing at the recent Belle Fourche rodeo "clownishly garbed in caricature cowboy costume" marks the leading editorial in the July number of The People's Business, issued today.

The magazine is the organ of the People's Legislative Service, a radical organization founded by the late Senator La Follette, of Wisconsin, and the editorial which for bitterness outdoes anything in a long series of anti-Coolidge and anti-third-term attacks, was written by Basil Manly, director of the service.

Entitled "Lincoln Was Right" and quoting Lincoln's assertion that "you can't fool all of the people all of the time," the editorial pictures President Coolidge parading the movie picture cameras "in a vain attempt to convince the multitudes that he is a humorist—a regular second Teddy Roosevelt."

The president, according to the editorial, has become a "pitiful puppet of publicity," and the while country is laughing, he continues, at the spectacle he presents in the moving picture reels of a "bewildered little man tottering down the steps in his vaudeville chapeau and timidly grasping the reins of the gift horse which he fears to mount."

"But their laughter," continues the editorial, "should be succeeded by tears at this degradation of the one office which every American has been taught to revere. Loyalty and obedience to government are founded upon respect for those who administer the law. How can respect for government in the United States be maintained when its highest official permits himself to be made part of a mere circus performance at the behest of professional purveyors of publicity? When the children laugh at their president, how can they respect him?"

"This buffoonery is not the choice of Calvin Coolidge. The pictures on the screen show him hesitating, sheepish and embarrassed as he first appears in his cowboy chapeau with 'Cal' blazoned on each leg in box-car letters. He seems to wish the earth would open and swallow him up." The president, the editorial asserts, is in the hands of "this publicity hounds" and is "acting up to their perverted ideas of public opinion."

COTTON MILL TAX IN MASSACHUSETTS SHOWS BIG JUMP

Boston, July 17.—(AP)—Taxes paid by the cotton mills of Massachusetts have trebled since 1915 "and when compared to the cost of living are found to be twice as high as the general level of prices," according to an analysis of the industry prepared by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers.

The association's report issued today stated that "the mills located in the Piedmont or Carolina section of the south pay about four-sevenths of the amount paid in Massachusetts, and the mills in Alabama, Georgia and the far south pay about one-third as much."

Quoting extensively from figures compiled by the National Industries Conference board, the report points out that the textile mills of Massachusetts paid taxes "amounting to 77.5 per cent more or nearly eight times the loss sustained by the mills" in 1924.

The report states that in 1920 the cotton mills in New Bedford reported 58 per cent of the total city assessment, but that losses suffered by the mills from high taxes reduced the assessments against the mill to 40 per cent of the total last year. In New Bedford in 1920 the mills represented 47.3 of the total city assessment.

DR. SANFORD VISITS STATESBORO SCHOOL

Statesboro, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) Dr. S. V. Sanford, dean of the state university, visited the Georgia Normal school Saturday and spoke to the 300 students at the chapel exercises and again at noon. This is the first visit of the dean to the institution since its conversion to a teachers' training institution. He expressed surprise and satisfaction at the institution. "Your progress justifies the action of the trustees and the state legislature in changing the school from an agricultural high school to a college," he said.

Chancellor Snelling had promised to be present on the occasion, but was unable to be here because of work at the university and before the legislature.

GRADING IS RUSHED ON JACKSON HIGHWAY

Jackson, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—When solid rock was struck on the Jackson and Vidalia Springs highway, which is being graded preparatory to paving this fall, the board of commissioners was forced to obtain a compressed air drill to expedite the blasting of stone.

With this improved equipment the grading is expected to proceed at a faster rate, and the highway will be graded to the Hollins camp ground within a few weeks.

The entire project will be completed by early fall, at which time a contract will be awarded for the paving.

POLICE LIEUTENANT VICTIM OF BURGLAR

Burglars late Sunday night entered the home of Police Lieutenant L. E. (Nick) Carter, at 404 Ormond street, S. E., making off with his trousers, a gold watch and half a week's pay, the first the lieutenant had drawn from the city in six months, he having been on sick leave for that length of time.

Mrs. Carter heard a noise about 11 o'clock but investigation failed to reveal the thief. His depredations were later discovered and reported at police headquarters by the lieutenant.

A gold watch and $54 in currency was stolen from the residence of Marshall Adams at 332 Ninth street, Sunday night, according to Mr. Adams's report to police. Another loser was Miss Olga Miller, 332 Spring street, who reported the theft of a pocketbook containing $28.

GEN. SUMMERALL SEES ARMY FIRST IN AIR PRESTIGE

Chicago, July 17.—(AP)—Trans-Atlantic flights by Lindbergh, Chamberlin, and Commander Byrd have in no way diminished the prestige and leadership of the army air forces, Major General Charles P. Summerall, chief of staff of the army, declared here.

He declared that the flight to Hawaii by forces have led all other groups in development of ships and pilots and predicted they would maintain that leadership for the present. He said that the army was not planning "spectacular flights."

"We are going ahead in the future as we have in the past, doing steady work and seeking improvements," he said.

General Summerall had attended a reunion of the Rainbow division at Des Moines, Ia., and while in this city inspected Fort Sheridan.

NURSE REFUSES FORTUNE WILLED HER BY PATIENT

(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, July 17.—Miss Ethel M. Sears, a trained nurse, declined at least for the present the fortune willed her by Sherwood Aldrich, wealthy mining man "because it wouldn't be fair to his mother to accept it," she said.

Although Aldrich's estate was said to total more than $3,000,000, Miss Sears said she understands it to consist of only "tens of thousands of dollars."

A trained nurse for 15 years, Miss Sears attended Aldrich for eight months prior to his death on July 2, in the Hotel Barfax.

"There was no question of professional ethics involved," she continued. "He named me residuary legatee of his estate after making provision for the care of his mother, Mrs. Josephine M. Aldrich, 85, of Riverhead, L. I. However, I did not think this was enough. I had promised him I would look after his mother, so I am going to have the money placed in trust for her until her death and then it may revert to me. There is a fair and square way to do everything and I think I am doing the right thing with the money."

Athens, Ga., July 17.—(Special.)—The Sarepta Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. convention will convene at Athens, Ga., on Tuesday, July 17, and Wednesday, July 18, and a large delegation of messengers from the churches, Sunday schools and B. Y. P. U. are expected.

The committee has arranged a program that will not only be interesting but will be a great spiritual uplift to all who attend the association. It is said. The Sunday school and B. Y. P. U. will be discussed on Tuesday and the B. Y. P. U. on Wednesday.

WORK IS RUSHED ON BERTAUD PLANE

New York, July 17.—(United Press.)—Night and day shifts will be employed this week at the Atlantic Aircraft corporation plant at Hempstead Heights, N. J., to complete the single-engine Fokker monoplane in which Lloyd W. Bertaud and James W. Hill plan to fly to Rome and return.

WARFIELD DISCUSSES DRAINING EVERGLADES

Jacksonville, Fla., July 17.—(AP)—The Florida Times-Union tomorrow morning will publish an advance copy of a speech to be delivered later in the day by S. Davies Warfield, president of the Seaboard Air Line railroad, at a meeting of Floridians in Baltimore, Md., which the declaration is made that "Everyday conditions can only be fully understood through conference."

The Times-Union quotes Mr. Warfield as saying that 11 questions are to be discussed and answered at the conference, as follows:

(1) The methods of financing the reclamation of the Everglades.

(2) The necessity of taxation to meet the promised issues of this security both as to interest and of meeting the maintenance.

(3) The amount of such security to be sold from time to time to meet necessities and approximate dates of the sales and with final total approximate.

(4) The general plan of drainage with total defined area expected to be benefited with extent of such benefits and time required for completion.

(5) The area defined in first proposed money expenditure with time of completion of first unit and additional expenditures to be made with time of completion of each unit.

(6) The requirements of property owners in connection with the engineering plans adopted to make available the land for cultivation.

(7) How definite are the engineers in the expectation and estimates of results under plans proposed.

(8) At what points will the local or resident engineering organization be stationed under the first unit of construction and expenditure.

(9) Florida Requirements.

(10) What relief will the proposed plan of canal widening and deepening and the other plans proposed by the engineers of state and those especially appointed have in the avoidance of the repetition of the calamities occasioned by the 1926 hurricane in preventing loss of life and in caring for the needs of cities and communities in relation to their drainage, problems without respect to the benefits to be derived by the actual reclamation of Everglades land.

(11) The desirability of constituting a committee composed of representatives of various cities or communities bordering on or affected by Everglades drainage or reclamation thereof to confer with the state in preventing loss of life and in caring for the needs of cities and communities in relation to their drainage, problems without respect to the benefits to be derived by the actual reclamation of Everglades land.

Losses Enormous.

Vienna's losses were enormous. Even her police report more than 80 dead and 600 injured, while anti-government forces maintain there were 1,000 casualties with about 150 killed. Besides the palace of justice, two plants of two government newspapers and several police stations, barracks and munitions shops were plundered and burned.

On reawakening Vienna found representatives of all the armies from the Danube garrisons arrived in the town by boat. They came when the capital's own troops refused to work with the police against the masses. All the frightful sounds of modern urban civilization, the street cars, shrieks of automobile horns, sputtering of motorcycles, cries of newspaper vendors and staccato pounding of horses' hoofs—everything disturbing and distasteful—was heard with joy this morning when the street cars and taxis began running.

Whatever fighting developed in the last 24 hours was in the outlying and slum districts. In all districts the police are under orders to fire blank salvos into the air. All of the mobs were dispersed without augmenting bloodshed.

No Better Than Mob.

After this event it is doubtful whether Vienna can longer wear the police crown which New York and Chicago awarded it, calling Vienna's police system the finest of the world. The Vienna police were no better than the mob Friday. The mob's fury was kindled by by a few enthusiastic agitators, but the police also lost their heads when they fired into the massed crowds instead of into the air. A few firebrands would have been enough to dispel the demonstration.

The most amazing experience was had by two policemen who were chased on the roof of the palace of justice. They descended when they found that the whole building was in flames. They could not escape through windows or doors, so they went to the cellar. When the palace began falling into the cellar, the police entered a sewer from which they escaped this morning after two days.

After restoring order the police remained on duty for 24 hours without relief and doctors and nurses did the same.

THUNDERSHOWERS TO BREAK WARMTH, SAYS U. S. BUREAU

Continued cloudy weather with local thunderstorms intermittently throughout Monday and Tuesday was the forecast issued Sunday night by the government weather bureau in Washington, D. C., for Atlanta and Georgia.

The unsettled and threatening condition predicted for the entire southeastern seaboard. Showers expected in Atlanta Sunday failed to materialize and residents awaited the onset of an opportunity to enjoy one of the (best days of the summer. Although the temperature ranged between a low of 70 and a maximum of 85, a cloudy sky and a steady breeze tempered a steady sun and altogether made it a cool Sabbath.

EIGHTY LIVES TAKEN BY WAVE OF HEAT.

AMERICAN TROOPS ENGAGE IN BATTLE

Enclosing a telegram from two Nicaraguan delegates to the fifth American labor congress, which meets here tomorrow, declaring American marines were threatening an attack on the Nicaraguan forces. Mr. Kellogg asked if this information was correct, and added:

"Recently we had hoped that peace had been reestablished and satisfactory arrangements for the holding of an election had been made. Now, it appears, from the information contained in the telegram which I have quoted, that bloodshed is imminent and destruction of life is seriously threatened. We shrink from the consideration of such a situation. We cannot contemplate it with complacency. I urge you to prevent the use of the United States armed forces in the Central American republic of Nicaragua."

While no names or places were mentioned in the telegram, Mr. Green forwarded to the secretary, if as assumed it referred to the situation at San Fernando, where General Sandino, former liberal, has declined to withdraw from American-owned mines.

ASSEMBLY WILL GET NEW TAX BILL TODAY

cost of about $100,000. I believe only about 65 per cent of the revenue due from that source is collected. I won't promise a revenue of more than $700,000 from a 3 per cent tax in invoice value of finished tobacco products under a situation like this, but I do believe it can be collected at a third of the present cost increasing the revenue about $105,000 a year. I don't like the idea of taxing the kind of tobacco Georgia grows, which is mostly cigar and cigarette tobacco, and getting nothing out of the imported varieties which are shipped in as snuff, chewing tobacco and smoking tobacco."

Both houses tomorrow are expected to take up propositions to increase departmental personnel. The senate probably will go into a bill proposing to create the office of assistant state school auditor, while the house is expected to consider a proposal to give the state treasurer more clerical assistance in his capacity as state bond commissioner. Neither measure has excited any comment heretofore, so that there is no expectation of fireworks.

To Speed Work.

Faster work will be demanded of the lower branch of the assembly this week by both Speaker Richard B. Russell, Jr., and Representative Arlie D. Tucker, speaker pro tem.

Speaker Russell announced last week that he will introduce a resolution calling for sessions of five hours a day instead of the present two to three, and ask that delays be cut as much as possible. Representative Tucker said today that he will back a such move by the speaker or if it is considered advisable to start it himself.

With nearly half the session gone, the house of representatives has passed ed but three general bills, killed long and voted to reconsider one of the three. The only general matter sent to the senate has been bills allowing the governor to impress allocated funds for payment of school teachers to save the state interest on bank loans for that purpose, and centralizing public funds in the state treasury, instead of allowing more than a score of the state departments and bureaus to administer, in whole or in part, their own finances without check by assembly appropriation.

FARM AID DRIVE TO OPEN IN WEEK

A fund adequate to finance the Georgia association's aggressive move for state-wide agricultural prosperity is the goal of a campaign that gets actively under way in Atlanta one week from today.

To map out the city campaign, the general committee in charge meets at noon Tuesday in the Chamber of Commerce building.

H. G. Hastings, president of the association, announced that a fund of $10,450, all of which came from rural districts, has already been contributed toward the $100,000 sought.

"The showing made by small cities and towns is a challenge to Atlanta," according to H. M. Atkinson, general chairman of the association. "We are going after the support of every public spirited business man and banker in the city."

It has been estimated that the state annually sends $100,000,000 out of its borders to purchase foodstuffs that could be raised advantageously on Georgia acres. To remedy this condition alone, it was pointed out, would go far toward relieving conditions now confronting the farmer.

Through advertising and educational work the Georgia association will foster farm settlement, crop reorganization, and creation of new markets.

Named to assist with the local campaign are Mayor I. N. Ragsdale, honorary chairman, and W. W. Orr, executive chairman, with a strong group of Atlanta business and professional men will take the field in behalf of the association, it was announced.

Lakewood Draws Throngs Seeking Sunday Pastimes

Lakewood park Sunday was thronged again with music-lovers and pleasure-seekers as the sun bore down on Atlanta.

Maurice A. DeGard and his 1223 infantry band, Georgia national guard, pleased a large audience in the afternoon with a special musical program. The range of selections included numbers designed to please the most fastidious and was cordially received.

Midway attractions offered special diversions in the way of amusements and boating on the lake was one of the most popular pastimes on the pleasure menu of the south's most famous amusement center.

The camp was informed by Commander H. D. Shaddeau that at its last meeting of the Greater Atlanta post, Veterans of Foreign Wars, No. 390, members of that body unanimously adopted the resolution recently passed by the Fitch Lee camp and endorsed the bill providing for tax exemption of veterans.

Jugo-Slav Finds Buttermilk Hard To Order Here

Dr. Ljubisav Petronic, a graduate of the medical school at Prague, Bohemia, can find as many bacteria as the next one, but he can't order buttermilk successfully in Atlanta restaurants, to save him.

Dr. Petronic, here as one of three men sent to make a special study of laboratory methods as employed by the state department of health, explains that six months in this country enables him to read English, but doesn't much help his tongue.

"I go in Atlanta restaurants and order buttermilk," he says, "and they bring me a bottle of sweet milk every time."

Dr. G. Varela, a bacteriologist of the Mexican government, who came here this summer from Harvard university, said he, too, found difficulty in talking in English. "I can read it and write it, but when I speak it, no one seems to comprehend so very soon."

Dr. Petronic is devoting his time here to a study of the preparation of anti-typhoid and anti-rabic vaccines. He plans to remain here until September 1, when he will go to the North Carolina laboratories at Edenton for a month, and then on to New York for a three months' study of serology before returning home.

Back in Jugo-Slavia, Dr. Petronic said he would engage in hygienic work for his government. "The swamps and lakes of south Jugo-Slavia create quite a demand for such work," he said. "There is a lot of malaria down there," he said, "but the bookworm is unknown."

Dr. Varela also plans to continue his studies here until September 1, when he will return to Mexico City as a bacteriologist for the Mexican government.

His special study here is that of methods of preparing anti-rabic vaccines. The method as employed in the Georgia laboratories, he said, is more simple, more effective and more economical than that used in the governmental laboratories of Mexico.

A third special student availing himself of the facilities for research offered by the state laboratories is Dr. H. C. Ricks, a former Georgian, now director of the Oklahoma state laboratories. A graduate of Emory university, Dr. Ricks is also interested in Georgia's method of preparing anti-rabic vaccines. He plans to leave here August 1 to go to Alabama to study the typhoid control methods employed there before returning to Oklahoma.

All three men are being aided in their studies here by T. F. Sellers, director of the laboratories of Georgia's board of health.

MRS. HOPPE NO. 1 SUES BILLIARDIST FOR 2 CHILDREN

New York, July 17.—(United News).—Declaring that Willie Hoppe, the billiards expert, is fonder of the green table and ivory balls than he is of his two children, his first wife, Mrs. Alice Beatrice Hoppe, has begun court action for permanent custody of Alice, 16, and William Thomas, 8.

Hoppe was notified by a process server that he had made another miscue with Mrs. Hoppe No. 1 while he was appearing with Mrs. Hoppe No. 2 in a vaudeville skit at the Coliseum theater.

The first wife's action will come up in supreme court Friday. The Hoppes here divorced in 1924 and the custody of the children divided as to time between them. Mrs. Hoppe charges that Hoppe neglected them during his period to play billiards.

Tri-State Meeting Of Woodmen of World Opens in Columbus

Columbus, Ga., July 17.—(AP)—Members of the uniform rank of the Woodmen of the World who are here to attend the annual tri-state convention, this afternoon unveiled a monument in Riverside cemetery, Colonel Walter M. Crawford, sovereign auditor of Omaha, Neb., delivered the memorial address at the exercises. The monument was unveiled to Lonnie L. Mathis, who was drowned last year.

Between 700 and 800 Woodmen will be here tomorrow to attend the convention of the uniform rank of Georgia, Alabama and Florida.

The formal opening of the camp will take place tomorrow afternoon. Addresses of welcome will be delivered by Mayor J. Homer Dimon and R. M. Harding, president of the chamber of commerce. Responses will be given by Colonel Walter M. Crawford, sovereign auditor, and Colonel Robert G. Plunkett, sovereign squire.

Several entertainment features have been planned for the visiting Woodmen, who will remain in Columbus throughout the week.

BLOODSTAINS TELL STORY OF BURGLARY

Presumably cut when he shattered the front glass of a store at 18-20 Ivy street early Sunday, a burglar gained entrance to the building and, departing by a rear entrance, left a blood-flecked trail behind him.

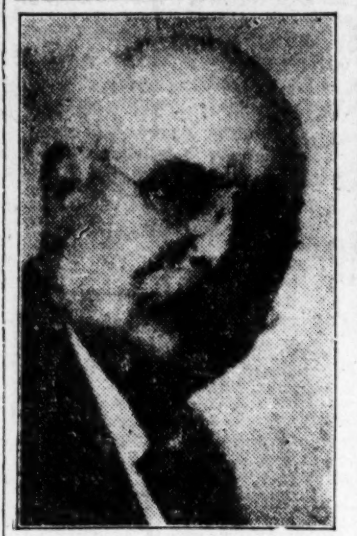

No loss was reported at headquarters by Patrolman Mosely, who investigated.

From the home of Lewis Greenberg, 456 Capitol avenue, burglars early Sunday made off with two watches, one diamond ring and a quantity of clothing, police records show.

Another watch was stolen from the home of Mrs. M. L. Mitchell, 1226 Virginia avenue, the erstwhile owner told police.

BATS STOP MALARIA, TEXAS DOCTOR FINDS

For many years San Antonians wagged their heads when a certain local doctor passed and thought—if they did not say—that he was a trifle loose in the upper story—"Bats in the belly," so to speak. The queer trick of fate is that he really did have bats on the mind, and his years of study of these eerie creatures has brought him world renown in such measure that he is being recommended for the Nobel prize for one of the most outstanding contributions to science of the year by the same people who at first smiled at his peculiar experiments.

Charles A. R. Campbell, M. D., of San Antonio, is a born naturalist and lover of nature. In his long, successful practice of medicine Dr. Campbell became interested in malaria and its deadly effects on man.

After years of patient toil and brilliant inductive reasoning he found the common and much maligned bat to have a vital bearing on the disease.

It had been discovered long since that the bat fed on insects and mosquitoes, but it remained for Dr. Campbell to find that the malarial mosquito comprised 90 per cent of the bat's diet and that the individual bat will devour 3,000 of these insects in one evening. He carried the work further and discovered that bats can be artificially colonized. Where a bat colony thrives the surrounding community is remarkably free from the dread malaria.

The story of his experiments reads like the most gripping fiction. A series of articles on this subject is appearing conclusively in current issues of Holland's Magazine. Dr. Campbell has also prepared illustrated lectures on malaria, bats, and mosquitoes and Holland's is sponsoring his appearance before civic bodies.

Additional Funds For Agriculture Research Urged

Washington, July 17.—(United News).—More funds for agricultural research and extension work should be available to supplement whatever form of farm relief is finally adopted, Charles J. Brand, executive secretary of the National Fertilizer association, said in a statement today.

Brand pointed out that only 10 cents per man, woman and child in the United States, is provided for research and extension of the U. S. agricultural department under the government's annual budget, whereas "national defense" gets $4.65 per capita, and "promotion of marine transportation" gets 54 cents.

"The department spends a trifle over 10 cents per capita for research and extension combined, and about one-half cent per capita for soil science in its various aspects," he said.

"With agriculture now producing bountiful supplies of practically all crops, there is no justification for further research as a means of producing more in the aggregate, but we need to produce what we make at less cost in order to insure a fair profit."

BODY OF MACON PAINTER FOUND LODGED IN RIVER

Macon, Ga., July 17.—(AP)—The body of Bruce Hudgins, 48, painter, of East Macon, was found in the Ocmulgee river lodged against a pier of the Macon, Dublin & Savannah railroad bridge this afternoon, about a mile below the city.

He had not been seen by his friends and relatives since Tuesday but on that day he was reported to have been seen twice near the river and on the Spring street bridge. The region where the body was found is unpopulated swamp land.

The body was towed to the shore by a fisherman and a police officer behind a bateau. An inquest will be held tomorrow.

CARRIZR PIGEON BRINGS WELCOME MESSAGE TO BYRD

Aboard U. S. liner Leviathan, July 17.—(By Radio to the United News). A carrier pigeon that fluttered to the bridge of the Leviathan Sunday afternoon brought Commander Richard E. Byrd his first contact with home and the reception that awaits him there.

A message was affixed to the bird's leg:

"To Commander Byrd and Accompanying Heroes: Welcome home. Whalen," the message read.

It was from Grover Whalen, chairman of Mayor Walker's reception committee.

Apparently the pigeon had been released from a shipping board vessel nearby. It is believed to be one of a flock released with messages to the fliers.

STOCKTON TO VOTE ON SCHOOL BONDS

Waycross, Ga., July 17.—(Special.) J. W. Timmerman, J. E. Mathis, J. M. Norton, I. W. Allen and L. Tomlinson, the trustees for the Stockton school district, have called an election for July 30 to determine whether $18,000 of bonds shall be issued for the construction and equipment of a new school building.

Falls Out of Car.
Tumbling from an automobile, little Florence Standard, 2-year-old daughter of Mrs. Mattie Standard, 237 Hill street, S. E., suffered bruises and cuts which sent her to Grady hospital Sunday afternoon for emergency treatment, according to doctors. No record of the case was on file with police.

Milton C. Work's Pointer On How To Play Bridge

Milton C. Work, the international bridge authority, will answer your auction bridge questions. A stamped self-addressed envelope must accompany each request for replies.

The pointer for today is:
Initial suit-bids in contract as in bridge, are valuable as lead-indicators.

A controversy is raging among contract players as to whether initial bids should be made with practically the same strength as at Bridge, or only with materially greater strength. Naming a suit gives valuable leading information to the partner and frequently this information prevents an adverse game which otherwise would have been obtained easily. At Contract, when facing a partner who is prone to jump a one-bid to a game, goer without a holding which justifies an unusual jump, it is obviously advisable to bid most conservatively.

But when facing a partner who opens the original one-bid may have been a feeler and for information purposes and who will not jump unduly, the bid is often of great value. It has a deterrent effect upon the adversary and enlightens the partner. It should be made in almost every case in which it would be made at Auction Bridge, unless the bidder is vulnerable. In that event, a little—but not a great amount of—added conservatism is advisable; an extra King adequately meets the needs of the situation.

Another Contract chat next Monday.

SYNOPSIS

A band of crooks, stumbling on the fact that Sir Adrian Shale's wife is alive, when she supposedly had died six months before in Italy, arrives at Grantwick, Sir Adrian's home, for the purpose of blackmailing him. Miss Winchell, one of the crooks, posing as a "daughter" Doris. The girl is beautiful and possesses the only threat of respectability the gang can lay claim to. She is in reality an orphan, whom Miss Winchell has befriended. One of the crooks, Beauty Bill Gibbons, asks Doris to marry him. She refuses. A few days later Sir Adrian answers Miss Winchell's demand by announcing he would like to marry Doris. Sir Adrian knows his wife is alive, and demands fifty thousand pounds for silence. Sir Adrian decides to make an investigation. His wife's former maid, Mrs. Ferguson, failed to come back to England after Lady Shale's death in Italy. In attempting to find her, Sir Adrian calls on her sister, Miss George, a fashionable London dressmaker, who is unable to give him any information. Doris rebels at the life she is forced to lead with Miss Winchell and Uncle Charlie, and takes a job as maid in a madam's house. She meets Sir Adrian on the street and they have tea together, but she leaves him in anger at his suggestion that she change her means of livelihood.

INSTALLMENT XIX.

THE SAD HEART.

Doris thought Adrian Shale had been playing with her, amusing himself by talking to a "crook"—one of the underworld. But what hurt most was that he was sorry for her—sorry in that superior way. He begged her to give up her evil life—he never doubted it was an evil one. The sincerity of his tone made the wound deeper.

O, but it had been cruel of him to open the door again, as he had this afternoon, to that quiet, safe life for which she longed. That well-ordered world of honest folk who seemed to have no troubles, no grim secrets to hide. A world in which the men were kind and gentle—not boisterous and crude.

She thought of Bill Gibbons and shuddered. And she was pledged to marry him. Well—what did it matter! This was a stupid child's dream, this dream of hers to cut out the old life. It couldn't be cut out the old life. It was only a matter of time before he or some one else would warn George that she had a blackmailer's accomplice in her establishment. And then?

Doris shivered. It would be Bill and the motor garage, until Bill tired of that. Try as she would, she could not in any way convince herself that Bill Gibbons would run straight for long.

She walked slowly to the shop, despondent, despairing, and it was madam herself who let her in.

"You look tired," Miss Winchell, said to her. "What's the matter?" she asked in her sharp way as Doris entered.

Doris gave a plucky, pathetic little smile as she tried to reassure madam that there was nothing the matter. But madam was not reassured. She followed Doris with questioning eyes as the girl ascended the stairs. George Ferguson's original interest in this strange girl was growing.

It was queer the child had no friends; obvious that she had some great sorrow. George thought of her own youth—her mistakes. She hoped the little Winchell was not going to make the same mistakes. She followed Doris slowly and went to her own comfortable sitting room on the second floor, where she became absorbed in old and tragic memories. She must keep an eye on this Doris—for the sake of a mistake made by a Georgia when she was about Doris' age; for the sake of a girl who would be about Doris' age now—if she were alive. Was she alive?

She was alone that night. Given her husband had left for Paris in the morning on one of his periodical business trips. He would be away for a week. Georgia Ferguson sat for a full hour gazing into the fire thinking—thinking. For that mistake of her youth had been more and more in her mind of recent years. It was increasing age perhaps that brought back the memories with increasing bitterness.

There had been many times like this, when she had been left alone, that an almost fierce determination would come to her to chance it and make inquiries to see if she could trace that lost child of hers. The asylum authorities might help. She might pose as a friend—or a sister of the girl's mother. She was well to do now; she might help the girl, anonymously. Even if she found her in a happy home, she need say nothing about the facts. Just get to know her, perhaps, and be kind to her. There was a dreadful longing in Georgia's heart at that moment to see again the daughter she had abandoned.

But as always with these sad reflections, there came now the dominating fear of her husband. They were happy together, but for all his dapper, quiet appearance he was a man of violent passions and bitter tongue. Georgia could not bear to face his anger, his recriminations—perhaps his leaving her. She could see the look of scorn that would come into his eyes if he learned of her long hidden secret, hear his voice rising. No, she could not face that. She must leave things as they were.

She put the thought from her and began again to consider "the little

Ponce de Leon

Opening today for a run of two days at the Ponce de Leon theater is "Paradise for Two," a delightful little comedy-musical starring Richard Dix and Betty Bronson.

"Paradise for Two" presents Dix out of his customary athletic role, the popular star taking the character of a man who must assume the guise of a married man for the purpose of his mission.

On the stage for Parisiennes, an organization of singing musicians, the bill is with an act carrying out the idea of an evening among the famous royal garden palaces of gay France.

Capitol.

Glorious Dolores Costello, the reigning queen of screen beauties, opens today at the Capitol in her first starring picture, "A Million Bids."

Not only does this picture give Miss Costello an opportunity to display her ravishing beauty, but also gives her the chance to prove that she is one of the foremost emotional actresses on the screen today. The offering is brimful of thrills and action.

Loew's Grand.

All hands aboard for a great fun festival at Loew's Grand theater this week where two star attractions will appear as headliners.

One of the star acts is Billy Hamilton's famous orchestra of eleven musicians, singers, dancers and comedians. The other act is the comedy feature, "The Torador."

presented by Larry Rich and Charlie Taylor. This is a revival of the best of the year here last season, "The Callahans and the Murphys," with Marie Dressler and Polly Moran in the picture.

Howard.

It looks like a big week for the Howard! And why not with a big program by Adolphe Menjou in his newest and merriest Paramount hit, "Service for Ladies?" At Short opera presentation in addition to a number of entertainers, new ballet of the night in everything it promises to be a gala bill. The entertainers slated to appear with the band are the Wellington sisters, Doris Rue, Robert Earle, Olga and Neal, and as mentioned before, the prima donna, and Louis Templeman as the girl and the nobleman who are married without Metropolitan.

Lewis Stone, Barbara Bedford and Ann Rork are featured screen stars in "The Notorious Lady" at the Metropolitan theater this week. Charlie Chaplin in a revival of his greatest comedy, "One, Two, Three," a picture version of Edgar A. Guest's famous poem, "When You and I Were Young," a "Felix, the Cat" cartoon and Bobby Jones, in an exclusive golf reel, are other attractions.

Rialto.

Some one has said that the most beautiful word in the English language is mother. "Mother" is the title of the picture which comes to the Rialto theater today. "Mother" stars Belle Bennett, who, a few years ago, played the role of mother in "The Callahans and the Murphys" at the Rialto. The picture is the leading lady of the old Forsyth Players at the Forsyth theater.

NEGRESS REPORTED BACK HOME AGAIN.

New Orleans, July 17.—(AP)—Telephone operators at Hazlehurst told the Associated Press over long distance tonight that the demonstrations against the negroes of the town ended last night, and that they had returned to their homes.

The city marshal said he did not recognize any of the members of the crowd. No further trouble is anticipated, he said, unless the negroes are quiet tonight. Failure of the negroes to resist the crowd probably averted a race riot, he said.

Three Measures Before Assembly Hit by Preacher

Three bills before the Georgia legislature were severely arraigned by the Rev. Richard Orme Flinn, pastor of North Avenue Presbyterian church Sunday morning in a strong sermon dealing with "covetousness." To this sin he attributed pending legislation dealing with the repeal of laws safeguarding marriage, with the search and seizure law as it affects enforcement of prohibition and with proposed changes in the Sabbath observance law.

It is because a few officials are unwilling to lose the fees they receive from marriage licenses that an effort is being made to repeal the law requiring applicants for these licenses to post their fees for five days," he declared. "They covet the few dollars but fail to think of the domestic tragedies that the proposed law averts. The law is an excellent one and should not be tampered with. It was shown recently that in one county five bigamous marriages were prevented by this law which these greedy officials now want to change."

Dr. Flinn attacked a measure which he said would have the effect of opening up Atlanta to a "continental Sabbath." He pictured the effects of this and ascribed the proposed legislation to covetous leaders in local amusement circles.

The search and seizure measure, Dr. Flinn declared, seemed nothing but an attempt to weaken prohibition enforcement. "Why," he asked, "can we run into Atlanta with forty gallons of liquor in our car, can be arrested and go free unless the arrested officer had some personal knowledge that he was carrying booze. When officers of the law catch a criminal, let's not, for Heaven's sake, pass a law that will turn him loose again."

The Gordon street Baptist church also voiced opposition to these three measures Sunday, adopting resolutions asking the Fulton county delegation in the house of representatives to do all it could to defeat the pending bills.

MISSISSIPPI TOWN EXPELS NEGROES FROM ITS LIMITS

Hazlehurst, Miss., July 17.—(AP)—City Marshal Phil Massa told the Associated Press here today that a group of enraged citizens last night drove all negroes found in the business section out of the city limits.

The action came, the marshal said, after a white woman had been insulted by a negro man and an automobile driven by a negro girl had seriously injured a mother and child.

No streets in the town, he said, but the enraged citizens mobilized and using fists, clubs and bricks, drove the negroes to the city limits.

No resistance was offered, he said, and no further trouble was anticipated.

The trouble started Thursday night, the marshal said, when the wife of a local telephone man reported to her husband that S. L. Caldwell, 28-year-old negro farmer, had spoken to her insultingly. As he moved toward her, she said, she called her husband and he drove the negro away with a pair of pliers.

Poses searched the county Thursday night and Friday for Caldwell, but he was not found. Mrs. Lucy James and a baby were run down by an automobile driven by a negro girl. Both were seriously injured and the accident caused the death of the baby.

A group of citizens hastily assembled, he said, and they passed from house to house in the business section driving the negroes before them down the streets to the city limits. Restaurants and business houses were cleared of blacks and driven covering before the crowd with threats and blows.

The city marshal said he did not recognize any of the members of the crowd. No further trouble is anticipated, he said, unless the negroes are quiet tonight. Failure of the negroes to resist the crowd probably averted a race riot, he said.

Hooker in Command.

by J. CARROLL MANSFIELD

THE APPOINTMENT OF GEN. JOSEPH HOOKER TO COMMAND THE FEDERAL ARMY OF THE POTOMAC RAISED THE SPIRITS OF THE UNION TROOPS AND BY APRIL, 1863, THEY WERE READY AND EAGER TO MARCH AGAINST THEIR OPPONENTS. HOOKER NOW HAD 130,000 WELL-EQUIPPED MEN, WHILE LEE ACROSS THE RAPPAHANNOCK IN FREDERICKSBURG HAD ONLY 60,000.

THE UNION COMMANDER PLANNED TO TRANSFER HIS FORCES TO THE SOUTH BANK OF THE RIVER WHERE THEY COULD MANOEUVRE WITHOUT CONFRONTING INTRENCHED POSITIONS. ON APRIL 13TH HE SENT GEN. STONEHAM WITH 10,000 CAVALRYMEN TO CROSS THE RIVER SOME DISTANCE UPSTREAM AND, SWINGING AROUND IN LEE'S REAR, TO TRY TO CUT THE CONFEDERATE LINE OF COMMUNICATION WITH RICHMOND.

HIS MOVEMENT WAS THWARTED BY HEAVY RAINS WHICH CAUSED THE RIVER TO RISE AND MADE THE ROADS IMPASSABLE. APRIL 27, HOOKER SENT THREE CORPS 25 MILES UP THE RIVER TO KELLY'S FORD, WHERE THEY CROSSED AND MOVED DOWN TO CHANCELLORSVILLE, NINE MILES FROM FREDERICKSBURG. ANOTHER CORPS JOINED THEM, SO THAT ON THE 30TH HOOKER HAD 40,000 MEN WITHIN STRIKING DISTANCE OF LEE'S LEFT FLANK.
